Report of CSR Activities

(Students of Second Semester, MBA 2015-2017 Batch)

CSR (Corporate Social Responsibility) has become mandatory for profit earning organizations or businesses to take care of society by contributing some percentage (2%) of their earning according to the Companies Act, 2013. Even though ours is not for profit Institution, we strongly felt the future managers whom we groom should understand their CSR and we also tried to inculcate this kind of feelings among them; we planned accordingly.

Hence, CSR activities during even semesters of our Academic Programs were planned in the month of April, 2016 and we decided to have two venues, viz., SNEHA SADAN and MISSIONARIES OF CHARITY; our faculties Dr. Surabhi Jha and Mr. Abraham Varughese had gone to make necessary arrangement and finally we took up such activities on May 26-27, 2016.

Program @ Sneha Sadan

A Home for Homeless

Sneha Sadan is a place where hapless children and the aged are taken care; there are 17 children and 11 aged people. Our students had busy schedule with them and in the process of making their lives interesting they played games, arranged competitions like drawing, cultural activities, blowing the balloon and all types of feel good situations.

The students shared each and every thing with them and a state of emotional bond could be created; they played guitar to make the inmates move with musical rhythm and forget their suffering. At the end the winners were rewarded with prizes; all such prizes were sponsored by the students only.

Missionaries of Charity

A home of the Destitute

It was our pleasure to go and meet the inmates in Missionaries of Charity, M S Palya, Bangalore; we just lost ourselves by seeing them and we had feelings that how fortunate we were getting great life and being so healthy. Each and every person we met was abnormal, physically and mentally retarded. We gave them biscuits and fruits to eat; there were feelings as if they were eating from the hands of their kith and kin. We made them play games and danced with them. The situation of joy continued till the inmates were fed up. The students loved them, shared and cared them for a while as if they all happened to belong to one family. Our students bought toys for the young inmates at Sneha Sadan, the young ones over there felt very happy. Apart from gifts given to them, financial contribution of Rs. 1610/- was also given on the occasion. Both faculty member and students were thrilled to do a bit humanitarian service to these organizations of the unfortunate ones.
